Porcelain dinnerware set

Porcelain dishes are one of the healthiest, safest and most popular dishes for serving food which will not put any risk on your overall health or harm your body. Porcelain is a lump of clay mixed with various stones like Kaolin, Silisp, and Feldspar with a type of sticky soil called ball clay. Porcelain dishes can accommodate high temperatures. So, these types of dishes do not heat up quickly in contact with hot food, do not break easily when heated and cooled and do not contain any toxic or harmful substances.

Arcopal dishes

Arcopal dishes are types of porcelain dishes which are more beautiful and firmer. They have increased in number of customers due to the light as well as glossy surfaces compared to porcelain material. The raw materials of glass dishes with some minerals are used to produce arcopal dishes. They are unbreakable compared to glass and lighter compared to porcelain.

Colored glass dishes

Colored glass dishes are among the best and healthiest materials for serving food due to the high resistance to pollution and do not change the taste and color of food. These types of dishes have been commonly used for daily purposes and have been used in colored glass designed such as amber dishes.
